Project update

2023 was a busy year for Spicers Creek Wind Farm.

It was wonderful to get together with the community in December at Gollan Hall to celebrate the eventful year and to say thank you for the ongoing support.

We were very pleased that Squadron Energy's co-owner Nicola Forrest AO could also join us for the evening.

Key activities

- Expansion of the wind monitoring program, including the installation of three new 110m monitoring masts and the upgrade of the existing mast to 160m.
- Completion of the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), which was publicly exhibited in July and August 2023.
- Completion of the Submissions Report in November 2023, providing detailed responses to the issues raised in the EIS submissions, including revisions to the project, additional commitments and provision of further information.

Environmental assessment process

The Spicers Creek Wind Farm Submissions Report is available on the NSW Government Major Projects website. Scan the QR codes below for the report and summary document.

The Department of Planning, Housing and Infrastructure (DPHI) is assessing the project. Its findings will be documented in an Assessment Report and provided with a recommendation to the Independent Planning Commission (IPC). The IPC will then decide whether to approve or refuse the project.
